Build Your Ebook Collection Strategically with Academic Complete as Your Base

Ebooks are an essential part of any library collection and are increasingly in demand by students and faculty alike. In a ProQuest survey, nearly 100% of faculty said they recommend ebooks to their students and almost 80% use ebooks in their research.

But when it comes to ebook acquisition there are many challenges: Tight budgets, time and resources needed to curate lists among them. Once acquired, other issues arise like how to drive usage and prove value to key stakeholders.

Academic Complete has it Covered

With Academic Complete, libraries can offer an affordable, critical mass of approximately 198,000 multi-disciplinary ebooks with unlimited, multi-user access, powerful research tools and DRM-free chapter downloads. Many libraries use Academic Complete as their ebook foundation, then leverage usage data to inform their acquisition strategies using other models like Demand-driven Acquisition, Perpetual Access and ProQuest's own Access-to-Own.

"Academic Complete is at the core of our collection strategy for ebooks. We supplement it with DDA and librarian-selected titles to match our programs, but we rely on Academic Complete to give us a good interdisciplinary selection. In addition to quality, scholarly content, our researchers appreciate the ability to search within books and download chapters, and the lack of restriction on simultaneous users."

- Karl Stutzman, Director of Library Services, Anabaptist Mennonite Biblical Seminary.

Other reasons why libraries subscribe to Academic Complete:

- To meet the needs of distant learners
- To support accreditation
- To supplement space reclamation/weeding projects
- To support growing enrollment and new programs
- When establishing a new library

"Academic Complete helps us to provide more ebooks for undergrads in subject areas in which we might not always choose to purchase ebooks. The interface has always been the simplest to use, and the one that our users seem to like the most. Also, the multiple users for every title is invaluable - we never have to worry about turnaways."

- Anne Cerstvik Nolan, Electronic Resources Librarian, Brown University Library

ProQuest is the only ebook provider to offer a comprehensive, aggregated ebook subscription in science and technology. With our Science & Technology Ebook Subscription, libraries can offer anytime, anywhere access to more than 30,100 librarian-selected titles in a diverse range of topics such as chemistry, physics, math, geology, geography, IT, computer science, gaming, engineering, agriculture, environmental studies, natural history, medicine, and more. The subscription helps researchers in many areas of study improve outcomes and develop the skills and knowledge they need to succeed in rapidly evolving areas of study.

More than 110 university presses contribute to this subscription including MIT Press, Stanford University Press, Oxford University Press, Amsterdam University Press, UBC Press, Leiden University Press, and Cambridge University Press. Other prestigious publishers include American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics (AIAA), Society for Mining, Metallurgy and Exploration (SME), American Water Works Association, IGI Global, Taylor & Francis, PennWell Corporation, Elsevier, IEEE Computer Society, Packt Publishing, Artech House, and No Starch Press.

The subscription includes more than 1,600 CHOICE, RCL and Doodys award winning titles. It also includes a growing selection of Wiley titles that are only available in subscription through ProQuest including Doodys and RCL award winners Introductory Biostatistics (2016), and Equine Wound Management (2016), and RCL award winners, Chromatography: Principles and Instrumentation (2016), Internet of Things: Implement New Business Models, Disrupt Competitors, Transform Your Industry (2016), and Rocket Propulsion Elements (2016).

All ProQuest subscriptions are delivered on the Ebook Central platform, which offers DRM-free chapter downloads, bookshelves, annotating and other features that enhance the research experience and improve outcomes. ProQuest is also the only ebook provider that offers both session and user-based usage data with Patron Analytics. Subscriptions offer unlimited multi-user access, continue to grow, and are affordably priced based on full-time equivalent (FTE) students. If libraries were to purchase every title in this subscription under a single user perpetual access model it would cost more than $3.2 million.

These and many other Wiley titles are only available in subscription through ProQuest.

The Arabidopsis Information Resource

The Arabidopsis Information Resource (TAIR) is an online database of genetic and genomic information for the model plant Arabidopsis thaliana. Established in 1999, TAIR provides the most comprehensive and current set of plant gene function data. Although the development of TAIR was funded by the National Science Foundation, TAIR now operates under a non-profit subscription support model administered by Phoenix Bioinformatics.

Arabidopsis thaliana

Because of its physical size, short life, and small genome, Arabidopsis thaliana is the preferred model organism for the study of gene function in higher plants. Many fundamental research questions in plant biology are studied in Arabidopsis, such as how plants grow, reproduce, sense their environment, and adapt to their surroundings. Approximately 4,000 research articles are published on Arabidopsis every year.

TAIR is considered an indispensable resource by tens of thousands of researchers around the world.

TAIR is used by plant biologists worldwide because of the extensive experimental information available for Arabidopsis gene function and genome organization. The research results from Arabidopsis thaliana are often directly transferrable to other plant species, including crops and plants of special ecological or evolutionary interest.

"TAIR is the resource for plant scientists like me involved in both experimental and computational work... The most important positive about TAIR is its curator team. They are very involved in this work, are very quick to respond to a question, do not mind going back-and-forth on an issue, and are most willing to cater to very personalized requests. Rarely does a day go by when I don't use TAIR. It is a clear model for a web resource."

—Dr. Arjun Krishnan, Princeton University, USA

"My research interests are plant miRNAs and other small RNAs. The huge datasets provided by TAIR really helped us doing bioinformatics analysis of small RNAs in Arabidopsis."

—Yijun Meng, Dept. of Bioinformatics, Zhejiang University, China

"TAIR saved me three months of map-based cloning work due to its morphological phenotype database."

—Dr. Christopher DeFraia, The Ohio State University, USA

"The world's most valued plant database." —Nature 462, 258-259 (2008)
